BOLSHEVIKI READY TO QUIT PETROGRAD, IS SWEDISH REPORT

Taking All Steps Preparatory To Evacuating Former Capital

CITY IS DOOMED

Expected To Be Victim Of Looting By Gangs
Of Robbers

FEAR EXECUTIONS

Libau, Northern Estonia And Livonia Are Cleared Of Bolsheviki

(Reuters Agency War Service)
Stockholm, January 24.—Reports from Petrograd indicate that the Bolsheviki are preparing to evacuate the city and the remaining valuables, etcetera, are being removed to Moscow.

Petrograd is regarded as doomed. It will probably be the victim of robber gangs formed of deserters and escaped convicts, who have already divided the city for looting purposes. It is expected that the greater number of the persons interned by the Bolsheviki will be executed.

Stockholm, January 24.—A message from Petrograd, via Helsingfors, states that the Bolsheviki government decided before leaving Petrograd to burn all bank account books with the object of destroying every trace of the capitalist regime.

The Bolsheviki government has prohibited Swiss citizens from leaving Russia and will hold Swiss citizens in prison as hostages while Soviet diplomats are refused access to Switzerland.

Estonia And Livonia Cleared Of Bolsheviki

Tale, January 23.—Libau, Northern Estonia and Livonia have been cleared of the Bolsheviki, thanks to the intervention of Finnish troops.

KOLTCHAK IS ENDORSED

(Reuters Pacific Service)
Harbin, January 24.—According to the Russian Telegraph Agency, a meeting of representatives of the People's Labor and Socialist Party of Omsk and six other towns in Siberia, after discussing the present political situation, decided that the following very important problems must be cleared up with the utmost urgency: to bring the campaign against the Bolsheviki to a satisfactory conclusion; the restoration of the Russian Government; and the reestablishment of Russia's international position. With regard to these problems the meeting expressed its belief that Admiral Koltchak and his government are able to fulfill them and consequently it expressed its willingness to give him every possible support.

Japan Will Withdraw

All But Its Reserves

Vladivostok, January 26.—A very prominent Japanese General, in an interview given to the press today, stated that all the reserves of the Japanese expeditionary army are being sent back home and active service men only will be retained in Siberia in sufficient force to cope with the Bolsheviki in the event of a rebellion. He stated that there are numerous Bolsheviki in Vladivostok and Harbin but their activities are restrained by the presence of the Japanese and Allied troops. When the spring campaign against the Bolsheviki commences the question of Japanese participation will again come to the fore. He expressed the opinion that European Russia was too distant for the Japanese Government to be agreeable to send their troops there. He thought that the new Russian army would be unable to dispense with the aid of the Allies and remarked that the guidance and instruction now being given by British and French officers was proving beneficial. The task immediately before the Allies, which brooks of (Continued on Page 4)

Peace Conference Names Committee To Draw Up League Of Nations Charter

Endorses Its Formation As Integral Part Of Peace Treaty; Committees Also Named To Report On Other Questions

(French Wireless)
Paris, January 26.—(Via Lyons and Koukaza). The second plenary sitting of the Peace Conference, which was held on Saturday afternoon at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, was presided over by M. Clemenceau, who had President Wilson on his right and Mr. Lloyd George on his left. M. Leon Bourgeois, the Chairman of the French League of Nations Committee, took his seat among the member of the French delegation.

After M. Clemenceau had given the Conference an idea of the preliminary resolution for the League of Nations, the Conference appointed a committee representing the Associated Governments to elaborate in detail the constitution and the powers of the League.

Several speeches were made, including one by President Wilson, who said in conclusion, "We are come here not to win a war but to win a cause and it is with this object that we must act."

Mr. Lloyd George notably declared, "The mere spectacle of the ravages of the Germans in the invaded districts suffice to rally us to this noble idea. If we should happen to have any hesitation concerning the subject."

Signor Orlando, the Italian Premier, "warmly associated himself with the preceding declarations."

All the generations which have fallen on the fields of battle have sacrificed their lives not only for the Motherland but also to assure to the world universal peace, and then recalled the causes of the defeat of The Hague Conference.

An address was then given on the ideas of the resolution drawn up by the Great Powers on the subject of reparation for violations of the laws of war, of an international regime of ports, water-ways and railways and of labor legislation. The commissions formed to study these questions comprise, for the most part, two representatives for each Great Power and five representatives elected by the other nations. A few delegates of small powers criticized this manner of forming the commissions. M. Clemenceau replied, setting forth the necessity of reaching an understanding by practical means and recalled the sacrifices borne in the war mostly by the Great Powers. He added, "Moreover, the plenary Peace Conference has the last word on all questions."

The Orders of the Day were then adopted unanimously.

Resolutions Passed By Conference

(Reuters Agency War Service)
London, January 25.—The official communiqué from Paris today states that the following draft resolution of the League of Nations was submitted to the full conference which sat today:

(A) It is essential to the maintenance of the world settlement which the Associated Nations are now met to establish that a League of Nations should be created to promote international co-operation to ensure the fulfillment of accepted international obligations and to provide safeguards against war.

(B) The League of Nations should be treated as an integral part of the general Treaty of Peace and should be open to every civilized nation which can be relied on to promote its object.

(C) The members of the League should periodically meet in international conference and should have (Continued on Page 8)

NOTORIOUS AUSTRIAN APPEARS IN MIXED COURT

Nielsen, Of Arms Smuggling Fame, Prisoner For Eight Months, Up On Bank Claim

A. Nielsen, the Austrian who attained world wide notoriety for his connection with the sensational "Medicine for India" arms smuggling exposure of 1915, appeared in the Mixed Court briefly yesterday as defendant in a claim brought by the Bureau of Liquidation of the Deutsche-Asiatische Bank.

With his appearance comes the disclosure that Nielsen has been in the custody of the Chinese authorities since last April, being interned alone under guard in Nantao. He was in the witness box for only a few moments yesterday, admitting the claim and stating that he had no assets in China, and was then taken back to internment. Judgment for the amount claimed from him, Tls. 1,471.03, was given in favor of the Bureau by Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Wong.

One other bank claim, that against J. Bechmann, was heard, judgment in the sum of $2,120.63 being awarded the plaintiffs. Practically all of the bank claims involving amounts of any consequence have been heard.

MOVEMENT GROWS FOR CATALANIAN AUTONOMY

Senators Propose To Establish Provisional Government In Spanish Port

(Reuters Agency War Service)
London, January 24.—The movement for Catalanian autonomy continues to develop. The Catalan senators and deputies propose to establish a provisional government in Barcelona, pending the constitution of a Catalanian Parliament with full authority in internal but not in foreign affairs.

BRITAIN WILLING TO LET LEAGUE DECIDE COLONIES

Neutralisation Suggested For German East Africa; Islands In Pacific Still An Issue

(Reuters Agency War Service)
Paris, January 24.—It is understood that the British are willing to relegate such problems as Mesopotamia, Palestine and the German colonies to the League of Nations as soon as the League is formed in order to avoid taking up the time of the Peace Conference with these matters. This decision indicates that the British Government does not desire to make any demands for territory which are not compatible with the principles of the League of Nations.

London, January 25.—At the discussion at the British Empire Conference concerning the German colonies yesterday General Smuts, on behalf of the Union of South Africa, claimed German South West Africa, upon which point there is full agreement. Great Britain is ready to accept some form of neutralisation for Togoland and Cameroon and even for German East Africa. The only point therefore for discussion was the fate of Samoa and the Islands in the Pacific. Some time ago Japan proposed that the Equator should form the limit of the Japanese southwards. This would give Japan the Caroline and Marshall Islands.

British Naval Policy Depends On Treaty

Building Program Not To Be Decided Till After Peace Conference

(Reuters Agency War Service)
London, January 25.—Reuters Agency learns that nothing is likely to be settled regarding the British naval building program until after the conclusion of the Peace Conference. Meanwhile orders have been given to suspend the construction of destroyers which have not been completed and of other types of war-vessels, including light cruisers.

King George Certainly Enjoyed Surrender Of The German Fleet

AT THE SURRENDER OF THE GERMAN FLEET
This remarkable photograph was snapped on the deck of the United States battleship New York, Admiral Rodman's flagship of the fleet of five American warships which attended the surrender of the German High Seas Fleet. King George was the "life of the party," the camera shows. He is shown in the center of the group giving every evidence of having cracked a joke—perhaps at the expense of his cousin, the ex-Kaiser. Reading from left to right are shown: Admiral Sir David Beatty, commander of the British High Seas Fleet and hero of the Jutland Battle; Admiral Hugh Rodman, King George's son, the Crown Prince, and Admiral Sims, commander of the United States naval forces in foreign waters.

Subway And Trams In Paris Taken Over Because Of Strike

Government Intervenes To Prevent Complete Paralysis Of Transportation In City

(Reuters Agency War Service)
Paris, January 24.—The discomforts of living in Paris due to high prices and lack of accommodation have been intensified by a strike of the employees of the underground railway and tramways. Troops are guarding the stations while policemen guard the drivers of the few trams which are running. The strikers today rejected the concessions offered by their employers. The Government may intervene.

Paris, January 25.—The Government has decided to take over the underground railways, tramways and omnibuses in Paris in order to prevent even a partial stoppage of these services. The employers and men are urged to negotiate as speedily as possible for a return to normal conditions.

To Sell Property Occupied By 'Wheel'

General Lu Announces Plans Despite Protest From Italian Legation

Despite a protest made by the Italian Legation to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at Peking, General Lu Yung-hsian has instructed the Shanghai Chinese Land Office to cancel the permanent lease of the property at 24 North Honan Road, where the Wheel held forth, and has announced that the property will be sold.

General Lu has requested Mr. Ivan Chen, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, to notify the Italian Legation, through official channels, that the closing of the place was justified and that tenders for the property have been invited.

U.S. ARMY ON WEST FRONT WAS SECOND IN STRENGTH

At Signing Of Armistice American Forces Ranked Next To French In Number

(American Wireless To Reuters)
Washington, January 26.—(Received at French Wireless Station).—General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, more public yesterday figures showing that on the day the armistice was signed the American army on the Western front was second in strength only to the French. There were 2,559,000 French, 1,943,700 Americans, 1,778,000 British and 200,000 Belgians, Portuguese and Italians.

'A' CO., S.V.C., ACTS ON APPOINTMENT ISSUE

Members Vote That New Officers Must Be Submitted To Them For Approval

The "B" Company, S.V.C., episode had a repercussion in "A" Company yesterday. At a meeting of that company a motion was passed that in the matter of appointment of officers the Municipal Council regulations be interpreted as they read. It was decided on a vote of 28 to 23, with eleven not voting, that hereafter in "A" Company officers shall be named by the captain of the company but submitted to a ballot by the members of the unit for approval.

There was considerable discussion of the motion, much of it heated. The other issue that has arisen out of the "B" Company affair, that of the right of men to resign, also came up and it was proposed that the captain make a definite statement as to the position of the members of the company in this matter.

The Artillery Company meets next week and the questions are certain to be raised there too.

SOCIALISTS POLL HEAVILY IN GERMAN ELECTIONS

Majority Branch Gets 39 Percent Of Total Number Of Votes Cast

Berg, January 25.—(Via Lyons and Koukaza). Messages from Berlin report:

The official newspapers of the Empire publish a provisional statement of the result of the election. This statement includes only a summary of the votes obtained by the different parties but does not give the number of votes which were assigned to each party. The Social Democrats obtained 11,105,000 votes, that is to say 39.3 percent of the total number of votes; the Democrats, 5,550,000, being 19.5 percent; the Center, 5,568,000 or 18.8 percent; the German National Party, 2,739,000, or 9.6 percent; the Independent Socialist, 2,186,000, or 7.6 percent; the German Popular Party, 1,106,000, or 3.8 percent.

The Monitor of the Empire remarks that in the elections in 1912 the Socialists obtained 24.8 percent and the Democrats 12.6 percent.

SPAIN EXPELS RUSSIANS

(Reuters Agency War Service)
Madrid, January 24.—The Austrian Embassy has left.
In the Chamber today the Republic Deputy, Barria, protested against the expulsion of Russians from Spain. Count Romanones, the Premier, replied that the measure was necessary to prevent Spain becoming a sanctuary or undesirable, adding that these Russians had been expelled from France, Switzerland and the Argentine.

AMERICA INSISTS ON WORLD LEAGUE, WILSON DECLARES

Must Gain At Any Cost Object For Which It Fought

OLD REGIME OVER

'Select Classes Of Mankind
No Longer Governors
Of Mankind'

ERA OF PEOPLES

Foundations Of War Just Over Must Be Swept Away

(Reuters Agency War Service)
New York, January 26.—A message sent from Paris yesterday states:

President Wilson addressed the Peace Conference today as follows: "Mr. Chairman: I consider it a distinguished privilege to be permitted to open the discussion in this Conference on the League of Nations. We have assembled for two purposes, to make the present settlements which have been rendered necessary by this war, and also to secure the peace of the world not only by the present settlements but by the arrangements we shall make at this Conference for its maintenance. The League of Nations seems to me to be necessary for both of these purposes. There are many complicated questions connected with the present settlements which perhaps cannot be successfully worked out to an ultimate issue by the decisions we shall arrive at here. I can easily conceive that many of the decisions we make shall need subsequent alteration in some degree; for if I may judge by my own study of some of these questions they are not susceptible for confident judgment at present.

Must Satisfy People

"It is therefore necessary that we should set up some machinery by which the work of this conference should be rendered complete. We have assembled here for the purpose of doing very much more than making the present settlements that are necessary. We are assembled under very peculiar conditions of world opinion. I may say without straining the point that we are not representatives of governments, but representatives of peoples. It will not suffice to satisfy government circles anywhere. It is necessary that we should satisfy the opinion of mankind. The burdens of this war have fallen in an unusual degree upon the whole population of the countries involved. I do not need to draw for you the picture of how the burden has been thrown back from the front upon the older men, upon the women, upon the children, upon the homes of the civilized world and how the real strain of the war has come where the eye of government could not reach, but where the heart of humanity beats. We are bidden by these people to make a peace which will make them secure. We are bidden by the people to see to it that this strain does not come upon them again and I venture to say that it has been possible for them to bear this strain because they hoped that those who represented them could get together after this war and make such another sacrifice unnecessary.

Peace Must Be Maintained

"It is a solemn obligation on our part therefore to make permanent arrangements that justice shall be rendered and peace maintained. This is the central object of our meeting. Settlements may be temporary but the action of the nations in the interest of peace and justice must be permanent. We can get up permanent processes. We may not be able to set up permanent decisions. Therefore it seems to me that we must take, so far as we can, a picture of the world into our minds. Is it not a startling circumstance, for one thing, that the great discoveries of science, that the quiet studies of men in laboratories, that the thoughtful developments which have taken place in quiet lecture rooms have now been turned to the destruction of civilization? The powers of destruction have not so much multiplied as gained fertility. They whom we have just overcome had at their seats of learning some of the principle centers of scientific study and discovery used them to make destruction sudden and complete; and only the watchful and continuous co-operation of men can see to it that science as well as armed men are kept within the harness of civilization.

U. S. Not Directly Involved

"In a sense the United States is less interested in this subject than the other nations here assembled. With her great territory and her extensive sea borders it is less likely that the United States should suffer from the attack from enemies than the other nations should suffer; and the order of the people of the United States—for it is a very deep and genuine order—for the society of nations, is not an ardent springing out of fear or apprehension, but an ardent springing out of the ideals which have come to consciousness in this war. In coming into this war the United States never for a moment thought that she was intervening in the politics of Europe or the politics of Asia or the politics of any part of the world. Her thought was that all the world had now become conscious that there was a single cause of justice and of liberty for men of every kind and place. Therefore the United States should feel that its part in this war had been played in vain if there ensued upon it a number of European settlements. It would feel that it could not take part in guaranteeing those European settlements unless that guarantee involved the continuous superintendence of the peace of the world by the associated nations of the world.

League Must Be Vital

"Therefore it seems to me that we must concern our best judgment in order to make this League of Nations a vital thing—a thing something called into life to meet an exigency, but always functioning in watchful attendance upon the interest of the nations and that its continuity should be a vital continuity that would not permit an intervention of its watchfulness and of its labor; that it should be the eye of the nations to keep watch upon the common interest, an eye that did not slumber, an eye that was everywhere watchful and attentive. Select Classes No Longer Rule "And if we do not make it vital, what shall we do? Shall we dis-appoint the expectations of the people. This is what their thoughts center upon. I had the very delightful experience of visiting several nations since I came to this side of the water and every time the voice of the body of the people reached me through any representative, at the front of the nation stood the hope of the League of Nations. Gentlemen, the select classes of mankind are no longer the governors of mankind. The fortunes of mankind are now in the hands of the plain people of the whole world. Satisfy them, and you have justified their confidence. Do not satisfy them, and you will fail to satisfy them. No arrangement that you can make will either set up or steady the peace of the world. America's Will For League

"You can imagine, gentlemen, I dare say, the sentiments and the purpose with which the representatives of the United States support this great project for a League of Nations. We regard it as the keystone of the whole, which expressed our purposes and ideals in this war and which the so-called nations accepted as the basis of the settlement. If we return to the United States without having made every effort in our power to realize this program, we should return to meet the merited scorn of our fellow citizens. For they are a body that constitute a great democracy. They expect their leaders to speak their representatives to be their servants. We have no choice but to obey their mandate. But it is with the greatest enthusiasm and pleasure that we accept that mandate; and because this is the keystone of the whole fabric, we have pledged our every purpose to it as we have to every item of the fabric. We would not dare abate a single item of the program which constitutes our instructions, we would not dare compromise upon any matter as the champion of this thing—this peace of the world, this attitude of justice, this principle that we are the masters of no peoples but are here to see that every people in the world shall choose its own masters and govern its own destinies, not as we wish but as they wish. We are here to see that the very foundations of this war are swept away. Those foundations were the private choices of a small coterie of civil rulers and military staffs. Those foundations were the aggression of great powers upon small. Those foundations were the holding together of empires of unwilling subjects by the duress of arms. Those foundations were the power of small bodies of men to mould the world to their will and use mankind as pawns in a game. And nothing less than the emancipation of the world from these things will accomplish peace. You can see that the representatives of the United States are, therefore, never put to the embarrassment of choosing a way of expediency, because they have laid down for them the unalterable lines of principles. And, thank God, these lines have been accepted as the lines of settlements by all the high-minded men who have had to do with the beginning of this great business.

Must Achieve War's Objects
"Mr. Chairman, when it is known, as I feel confident it will be known, that we have adopted the principles of the League of Nations and mean to work out those principles in effective action, we shall by that single thing have lifted a great part of the load and anxiety from the hearts of the men everywhere. We stand in a peculiar case. As I go about the streets here I see everywhere the American uniform. Those men came into the war after we had uttered our purpose. They came as crusaders not merely to win a war, but to win a cause; and I am responsible to them, for it falls to me to formulate the purpose for which I asked them to fight, and I, like them, must be a crusader for these things, whatever it costs and whatever it may be necessary to do in honor, to accomplish the object for which they fought.

"I have been glad to find that there is no question of our standing alone in this matter, for there are champions of this cause upon every hand. I am merely reverting to this in order that you may understand why, perhaps, it fell to us who are isolated from the politics of this great continent and of the Orient, to suggest that this was the keystone of the arch and why it occurred to the generous mind of our President to call upon me to open this debate. It is not because we alone represent this idea, but because it is our privilege to associate ourselves with you in representing it.

"I have only tried in what I have said to give you the foundations of the enthusiasm which is within us for this thing, for those foundations spring, it seems to me, from all the ancient wrongs and sympathies of mankind, the very pulse of the world seems to beat to the surface in this enterprise."

Addresses Delegation Of French Working Women

New York, January 28.—A message sent from Paris yesterday states: Today President Wilson at home, spoke to a delegation of the working women of France as follows:

"Mademoiselle Thomson and Ladies: You have not only done me great honor but you have touched me very much by this unexpected tribute and may I add that you have frightened me because realizing the great confidence you place in me, I am led to question my own ability to justify that confidence. You have not placed your confidence wrongly in my hopes and purposes but perhaps not all of those hopes and purposes can be realized in the great matter you have so much at heart—the right of women to take their full share in the political life of the nations to which they belong. That is necessarily a domestic question for several nations. The Conference of Peace settling the relations of nations with each other would be regarded as going very much outside its province if it undertook to dictate to several States what their internal policy should be.

"At the same time these considerations apply also to conditions of labor and it does seem to be likely that the Conference will take some action by way of expressing its sentiments, at least with regard to the international aspects of labor and I should hope that some occasion might be offered for the case not only of the women of France but of their sisters all over the world to be presented to the consideration of the Conference. Conference Is Unwieldy

"The conference is turning out to be a rather unwieldy body—a very large body representing a great many nations large and small, old and new, and the method of organizing its work successfully I am afraid will have to be worked out stage by stage. Therefore I have no confident prediction to make as to the way in which it can take up questions of this sort. But what I have most at heart today is to avail myself of this opportunity to express my admiration for the women of France and my admiration for the women of all the nations that have been engaged in the war.

"By the fortunes of this war the chief burden has fallen upon the women of France and they have borne it with a spirit and devotion which has commanded the admiration of the world. I do not think that the people of France fully realize perhaps the intensity of the sympathy that other nations have felt for them. They think of us in America for example as a long way off and we are in space but we are not in thought. You must remember the United States is made up of the nations of Europe—that French sympathies run straight across the seas not merely by historic association but these nerves of sympathy are quick to transmit the impulses of one nation to the other.

"We have followed your suffering with the feeling that we were witnessing one of the most heroic and may I add at the same time one of the most satisfactory things in the world. Satisfactory because it showed the strength of human spirit and the indomitable power of women and men alike to sustain any burden if the cause was great enough. In ordinary war there might have been some shrinking, some sinking of effort, but this was not an ordinary war. This was a war not only to redeem France from an enemy but to redeem the world from an enemy and France therefore and the women of France strained their hearts to sustain the world.

Has Been A Popular War

"I hope that strain has not been in vain. I know that it has not been in vain. This war has been popular and unlike other wars in that it seemed sometimes as if the chief strain was behind the lines and not at the lines. It took so many men to conduct the war that the older men and women at home had to carry the nation. Not only so but the industries of a nation were almost as much a part of the fighting as the things which took place at the front.

"So it is for that reason that I have said to you that this must be a people's peace because this was a people's war. The people won this war, not the governments, and the people must reap the benefits of the war. At every term we must see to it that it is not an adjustment between governments merely, but an arrangement for the peace and security of men and women everywhere. Little obscure sufferings and daily unknown privations and the unspoken sufferings of the heart are the tragic things of this war. They have been borne at home and the center of the home is woman. My heart goes out to you therefore, Ladies, in a very unusual degree and I welcome this opportunity to bring to you this message not from myself merely but from the great people whom I represent."

BRITISH ARMY OFFICER CHARGED WITH MURDER

Accused Of Wilfully Slaying Another Officer; Wife Called But Does Not Testify

(Reuters' Agency War Service)
London, January 24.—During the inquest on the late Major Seton, Mrs. Rutherford was called but it was subsequently decided not to examine her. Her maid gave evidence that the Rutherfords lived unhappily and Major Seton was the sole guest at the Rutherfords' house at Christmas during Lieut.-Colonel Rutherford's absence in France. Lieut.-Colonel Rutherford and Seton were friends. A letter dated October 22 was read showing that Mrs. Rutherford had asked her husband to facilitate their divorce. The jury brought in a verdict of wilful murder against Lieut.-Colonel Rutherford.

ARTS AND CRAFTS PLANT NEW FURNITURE FACTORS

Meanwhile Firm Prepares Temporary Quarters To Start Work In Few Days

A modern cabinet factory, with the latest types of electrically-driven machinery from England, will be built by Arts and Crafts, Ltd., probably on the site of the building destroyed in Saturday night's fire. Work on the new structure will be started as soon as the insurance on the old is adjusted so that the building will be all ready for the machinery arriving from England.

In the meantime, the firm has secured temporary quarters and will be able to resume manufacturing by the latter part of this week. Upholsterers and decorators were working in temporary quarters yesterday. This department will not suffer, as the huge stocks of upholstery and decorating materials were stored in godowns saved from the fire.

The machinery destroyed will temporarily embarrass the firm but arrangements have been made to do all work by hand labor until machinery is secured. Thus the company will be able to handle construction work by the end of the week.

Quick action was taken when the complete damage done by the fire was determined. Plans were made Sunday afternoon to secure a temporary factory and everything possible has been done to effect a speedy adjustment of conditions.

For the information of a large number of customers in the outports, representatives of Arts and Crafts, Ltd., announce that all stocks of manufactured furniture, furnishing fabrics and carpets are exhibited in the showrooms at 43 Bubbling Well Road, four miles from the scene of the fire.

Had the fire destroyed the timber standing in the yards, much of which has been seasoning for six or seven years, the firm would have suffered much more. That little damage was done to the lumber is due to the splendid efforts of the firemen who effectively fought the blaze so that it was confined to the furniture and upholstery factory. The fire probably started in the machine shop near a motor, it became known yesterday, defective wiring being the probable cause. The plant was fully covered by insurance.

Lumber Panic Ruins Big Chinese Concern

Chun Chong Company Goes Under As Result Of Drop In Local Timber Market

As an echo of the recent panic in the local lumber market due to sweeping reductions in selling rates of woods imported at high costs, various creditors of the Chun Chong Lumber Company, one of the largest Shanghai firms, will shortly apply for an order for formal liquidation of the company.

Speculation in large quantities of lumber imported at costs much higher than the present selling prices has ruined the company, the liabilities of which will aggregate nearly Taels 100,000.

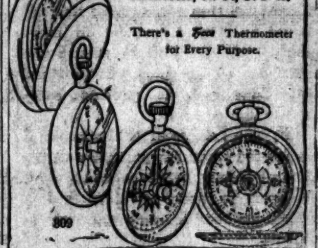

The premises, located at North Soochow Road near Markham Road, are in the hands of creditors.

Arts & Crafts Fire

Manufacturing to be immediately resumed

ARTS & CRAFTS, LTD. beg to announce that the fire which occurred at their Factory on Saturday, only destroyed their manufacturing plant, and certain articles under construction and just completed.

Arrangements have already been made for the immediate operation of a temporary factory, pending the construction of the new building. Practically the whole of their huge stocks of timber, upholstery and paint stores have been saved.

The recently constructed warehouse for the storage of customers' household furniture and effects was fortunately untouched.

For the information of our large clientele in the outports, we beg to announce that all stocks of Carpets, Furnishing Fabrics and Manufactured Furniture are exhibited in our Showrooms, 43 Bubbling Well Road, 4 miles from the scene of the fire.

REPUBLIC IS VICTORIOUS IN PORTUGUESE RISING

Monarchist Forces Fail, According To Latest Reports; Troops And Fleet Attacking Oporto

(French Wireless)
Paris, January 25.—(Via Lyons and Koukaza). A message from Lisbon reports the victory of the Republican forces over the Monarchists. The Republican troops have also started to besiege Oporto, where the principal forces of the insurgents are gathered. A decisive action is expected to occur at Oporto shortly.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Macao, January 27.—An official message from Lisbon states that the movement for the restoration of the monarchy is not meeting with success. Republican troops are marching to attack Oporto while warships have arrived off that town and the Government continues successfully with the suppression of the rising.

(Reuter's Agency War Service)
Lisbon, January 23.—The forts and entrenched camp of Lisbon support the Republic. The vessels in the Tagus have intercepted a wireless message sent by the Monarchist forces on Monsante to Oporto announcing that the cavalry, part of the infantry, twenty guns and many civilians in Lisbon have joined them.

Madrid, January 24.—It is reported from Valencia that a monarchy has been proclaimed in Lisbon.

Vigo, January 24.—It is reported that the majority of the garrison in Lisbon has adhered to the monarchy. The Monarchists have seized the wireless station at Monsante, near Lisbon. Senhor Couceira's secretary is said to be proceeding to Madrid on an important mission.

Lisbon, January 24.—All political prisoners except the murderer of the late President Sidoneo Pais, have been released.

Lisbon, January 24.—The troops assembled on the Monsante Hills having unfurled the Monarchist flag, a battery in Lisbon shelled the troops, which are reported to be commanded by Colonel Mendonca, a former Minister. Bluejackets have erected barricades in lower Lisbon in expectation of an advance of cavalry from Monsante.

Senhor Antonio Almeida appeared today in a motor car in Roca Square. The crowd acclaimed him and called on him to defend the Republic.

LAST OF OPIUM STOCK VANISHES IN FLAMES

Destruction Of Drug Is Concluded; Officials To Attend Reception This Afternoon

The last ball of the 1,297 chests of opium purchased by the Government from the Opium Combine and ordered destroyed here was converted into harmless cinders and joyless smoke in the kilns at Pootung yesterday when the final 179 chests of the $25,000,000 store were consigned to the flames.

In observation of the conclusion of the historical opium burning a reception will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Bureau of Foreign Affairs. Consular officials, the Government delegates, Customs officials and representatives of the various social, religious, educational and commercial organizations have been invited to attend.

The scene of the opium destruction was visited by a large number of spectators on Sunday, the launches in service across the river carrying many persons on each trip. During the day 201 chests of the drug were burned.

The Government delegates sent to supervise the burning and the Customs officials brought here to assist from other ports will return shortly to their posts. Commissioner Chang Yi-pang expects to leave tomorrow.

BRITISH STRIKERS REFUSE TO RESUME THEIR WORK

Delegates Meet Minister Of Labor But Are Unable To Reach Agreement

(Reuter's Agency War Service)
London, January 24.—Press Bureau. The Minister of Labor met the members of the executive and the district official of the boilermakers, shipwrights and blacksmiths' trade unions who agreed to a forty-seven hour week and promised to advise the resumption of work if no reduction was made in the wages of piece-workers, as already conceded to time-workers. The Minister replied that the employers are willing to meet the negotiating committee of the Unions and discuss all the questions raised on the 29th if work is resumed on the 27th. He also referred to the resolution signed by the secretaries of the Unions concerned advising the resumption of work as a condition precedent to meeting the employers. The representative present declined to advise the resumption of work whereupon the proceedings were adjourned.

ANNOUNCE REGULATIONS FOR ENEMY PROPERTIES

Plans For Administration Ready, Anticipating Issuance Of Mandate

Regulations for the administration of enemy property to be sequestrated have been prepared at Peking so that authorities will be fully instructed when the mandate is issued ordering the seizing of enemy property and the deportation of enemy subjects. These regulations have not been given to the police of the International Settlement as they must go through official channels. Local police officials will be advised by the Consular Body, who in turn will get instructions from the Bureau of Foreign Affairs.

It was learned yesterday that the Blue Pinned Line Pyrrhus, due here on February 9, is to take deportees to Germany.

GERMAN-AUSTRIAN STATE ON EDGE OF BANKRUPTCY

Half A Billion Marks Must Be Raised By Taxation To Meet Deficit

(French Wireless)

Berne, January 25.—(Via Lyons and Konigsberg). News arriving from Vienna depicts the financial situation in German-Austria in the gloomiest terms. The Minister of Finance, Wender, is being hotly attacked concerning his projects for new taxation. He has declared that it will be impossible to escape bankruptcy unless they raise fresh taxes. The next financial half-year will close with a deficit of a milliard crowns, which must be covered solely by taxation. If they wish to cover it by a new issue of bank-notes, the bankruptcy of the State will become inevitable.

U.S. Army To Take Care Of Its Soldiers Till They Find Jobs

Washington, January 25.—(Received at French Wireless Station).—The War Department today ordered that no man be discharged from the army against his will until such time as he can obtain employment in civil life.

TRAGIC DEATH ON JAPAN-BOUND LINER

Mysterious Malady Claims Life Of Harrison Prendal Three Days From Port

Tokio, January 11.—Harrison Prendal, a vigorous young man in his early thirties, boarded the Siberia Maru, at San Francisco, apparently in perfect health, with a body made strong with several years' training as a Yale quarter-back.

Just as the Siberia was to depart from Yokohama to continue her voyage to China, a coffin containing his body was taken ashore and placed in the crypt of the Naval Hospital on the bluff.

Between the departure of the boat from San Francisco and its arrival at Yokohama, there is the history of a sudden, mysterious illness, which laid this young man low in a series of 70 convulsions finally ending in death in spite of the constant care and attendance of the doctor, of every member of the crew from the Captain to the deck boy, and of many of the passengers.

The case baffled everyone and no remedies appeared to help, while in the meantime he went out of one convulsion, only to go into another. If the ship could only get to Yokohama, said the Captain, he might be saved. And he speeded the boat and it became a race with death.

They doubled their efforts, Prince Fushimi, a fellow passenger, sent his own personal physician to help, but there was nothing to work with, and the doctors were helpless. So death won by a margin of three days.

A wireless notified the American Consul at Yokohama of the tragedy, but it was not until the boat was ready to leave the port that it was possible for him to arrange to have the body removed and the effects of the young man sealed, to be sent to his relatives in the States. As details concerning him were meager, it was a difficult matter to trace his relatives. However, as the company with which he was connected had business relations with Tata and Co., of Osaka, that company is endeavoring to get in touch with the dead man's home folks. It is known that a young wife and two children were left by him at home, planning to join him later in China.

U.S. Army And Navy Budgets Cut Eight Billions

Washington, December 5.—Secretary Baker told the Senate Finance Committee today that, through contract cancellations, the War Department expects to save approximately $7,250,000,000 of the $24,281,000,000 voted by Congress for the army during the war.

More than a billion dollars has been cut from the navy's estimates of expenditures for the coming fiscal year.

18 SHIPS RETURNED TO OWNERS BY U.S.

Government Releases Requisitioned Tonnage To American Merchant Marine

(American Wireless To Reuters)

Washington, January 25.—(Received at French Wireless Station).—The Government has returned eighteen ships to their owners.

John Donald, acting chairman of the Shipping Board, told shipping men today that plans for the establishment of stations in all American ports to facilitate refueling vessels of the American merchant marine were under consideration.

The closing session of the general conference of shipbuilders, owners and operators and employees today adopted the resolution favoring the development of the American merchant marine, and the organization of an association for that purpose.

Washington, January 26.—(Received at French Wireless Station).—Eleven additional steamers of 100,000 deadweight tons were assigned to the trade between the United States east coast and South America, the Shipping Board announced. A total of 69 steamers of 465,000 deadweight tons has been released for this trade. The Shipping Board also announced that fourteen steamers formerly in war service have been released for commercial trade, including three Japanese ships, the Kunajiri Maru, the Rangoon Maru and the Myojisan Maru, which were allocated to carry coal on the Pacific Coast.

Between the departure of the boat from San Francisco and its arrival at Yokohama, there is the history of a sudden, mysterious illness, which laid this young man low in a series of 70 convulsions finally ending in death in spite of the constant care and attendance of the doctor, of every member of the crew from the Captain to the deck boy, and of many of the passengers.

BOLSHEVIK EMISSARIES MAKE WAY INTO CHINA?

Suspicious Party, With Millions Of Roubles, Gets Over Border

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, January 25.—Six Chinese recently arrived at Daurin Station, on the Manchurian frontier, from Russia, accompanied by a guard dressed in Czechoslovak uniform. The Chinese stated that they had paid the Czechs out of their own pockets to safeguard them on their journey home. As the circumstances were peculiar, the Russian railway authorities sent for the railway police but when the latter arrived the men in Czech uniform had disappeared and have not been seen since. The police searched the Chinese and found large quantities of rouble notes on them. They then searched their belongings and found bags and boxes filled with notes. Altogether six-and-a-half millions of roubles were discovered.

The opinion is expressed that this party is the first batch of Bolshevik emissaries to come to China and it is believed that the so-called Czechs were really Bolsheviks.

RELEASE OF STEAMERS IS AWAITED BY P. AND O.

Sufficient Liners Expected To Assure Fortnightly Sailings In Six Months

Release of steamers now commandeered by the British Government will allow the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company to offer monthly service on London from Shanghai by May first, according to an announcement made by the local offices of the P. and O. yesterday. Sufficient liners are expected to be available in six months to assure fortnightly service to Marseilles and London.

The company is now operating but three steamers, the Nora, Novara and Nellore, between this port and London, while the Hejaz, Dunera and Dilwara are running on the Bombay line. The British Government has under control 33 of the P. and O. fleet and two are building.

Ten steamers were sunk during the war. Six of them were over 10,000 tons. They are the Candia, Marmora, Medina, Moldavia, Monpolla, Mooltan, Namur, Pera, Peshawar and Salsette.

The company offices have been besieged with requests for passage and all steamers up to May are completely booked.

Boatmen Acquitted In Smuggling Case

The Isolah, engineer and deck-hand of the Jardine, Matheson launch Thistle, who were charged with assisting in the smuggling of $7,100 worth of opium ashore from the Chinese revenue cruiser Ping Ching, were discharged following the conclusion of the case before Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Wong in the Mixed Court yesterday. Evidence given included that by one of the accused and by Sgt. Chagwidden of the River Police, who said that his examination of the Thistle on Christmas night, the night the balls of opium were captured, tended to show that the launch had not been shifted from her moorings. It is expected that there will be developments in regard to members of the Ping Ching's crew.

U.S. Will Protect Its Wool Dealers

Disabled Will Keep Employment To Last

(Reuter's Agency War Service)
London, January 24.—Press Bureau. The Government has decided that no disabled soldier or sailor employed in State-owned factories or establishments shall be discharged until after a dilutee or ex-service man of the same class of skill. The Minister of Labor requests all employers to adopt a similar procedure.

News Brevities

A daughter was born to Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Dunlap at Peking on January 21. Dr. Dunlap was formerly connected with the Red Cross Hospital at Shanghai.

In the Mixed Court yesterday a Chinese shopkeeper was charged by another Chinese with having defiled the graves of the latter's ancestors by having them dug up and the remains removed from their resting place near Ningkuo Road to another spot. On application of the attorney the case was remanded until after the China New Year holidays.

Three servants appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday on charges of stealing money and jewelry, preferred by Mr. Evans. One of the charges was that the houseboy had converted $14, turned over to him for the purpose of paying a fine bill, to his own use. The boy ingeniously explained that as the sheriff had not come around to collect the money he had decided to buy a new gown with it.

M. Pernotte, General Manager of the Banque Industrielle de Chine at Tientsin, has been awarded, by the French Government, the Croix de Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur.

The Liangyi Benevolent Association, Wuchow Road, has begun distributing clothing and food to destitute Chinese. The association is under the directorship of Mr. Loh Wen-tsang, formerly of the Slinger Sewing Machine Co.

Madame Sung Pan-sze, widow of Mr. Sung Chao-chen, the Minister of Agriculture and Forestry who met his tragic death here in 1914, passed away at her residence at 19, Pan Kong Li, Avenue Joffre, Sunday. A funeral procession will be held February 9. Madame Sung will be buried with her husband at the Sung Yuan in Chapel.

The Rev. C. E. Derwent will deliver a lecture on "Gibson, the Man and His History" tomorrow evening at the meeting of the Union Church Literary and Social Guild.

The exchange banks will be closed for public business from February 1 to 6 inclusive on account of the China New Year. The Chinese Post Office will be closed on February 1 from noon. The parcel and money order offices will be closed during the entire day.

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York is the first American bank to establish a branch in Belgium, having received permission from the State Department at Washington to open offices in Brussels. The Guaranty Trust Company is associated with the Mercantile Bank of the Americas in the American Mercantile Bank of Cuba, which opened January first. The Asia Banking Corporation of Shanghai is a branch of the Guaranty Trust Company.

The Mixed Court will suspend sessions from February first to sixth, inclusive, in observance of the China New Year.

Judgment against the Bank of Territorial Development for $10,200, represented by bank notes, was awarded yesterday in the Mixed Court to Kong Young-foo. The plaintiff was represented by Mr. R. D'Auxion de Ruffe.

DRUG TRAFFIC BARED BY DEATH OF ACTRESS

London Gets Startling Disclosures In Inquest Over Billie Carleton

(Reuter's Agency War Service)
London, January 23.—The dramatic proceedings in the inquest on the death of the well known actress Billie Carleton have concluded. The enquiry was marked by most sensational disclosures regarding trafficking in drugs and a mass of conflicting evidence was adduced. The jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter against a friend of the deceased named de Veille, who strenuously testified that he did not supply her with the cocaine which caused her death.

Peg o' My Heart

It was as cold as it could be in the Lyceum Theater last night when the Howitt Phillips Company paid us a welcome return visit and with that perfectly delightful play "Peg o' My Heart." When one listens to the lyrics it becomes very apparent that it would be a very bad company that could let it down. In fact in theatrical parlance it is acting-proof.

Of course it is a one man part. How silly; what I really meant is that it was a one woman part, and that one woman was Miss Doris Phillips. I remembered vividly all her business that she so delighted us with the last time she was here, and was expecting it with any amount of real pleasure. Well it all came and in many places it was as improved. Yes, Miss Phillips, I thoroughly enjoyed your fine Peg. I fell in love with you again. You were perfect in the last scene, and time and time again your clever work first made us all feel very sentimental and then this was followed by hearty laughter. There was just one thing that was not an improvement on the last portrayal and that was that little shriek of laughter. It was almost a squeak and I remember that before it was natural and pleasurable. Go back to the old method, it cannot be improved upon.

Apart from Miss Phillips no one really had a chance. The "Jerry" of Mr. H. B. Waring was fresh and pleasing and we look forward with pleasure to seeing this actor in other parts. Mr. Leonard Stephens had a great part in Alaric and he gained any amount of laughter with his whimsical work, but for all that his methods were more on the lines of "musical" comedy than the legitimate. In act three he was really very funny and not the least funny part about him was his very short trousers. I was not quite sure whether they were short trousers or long knickers.

The folks on the other side of the footlights are not supposed to like Ethel and in that we were sorry for Miss Olive Stevens, who had to act the part. She got her best chance in act three and made quite an impression. Miss Lillian Stanbridge, an old favorite here, took the part of Mrs. Chichester and here long experience enabled her to steer the portrayal through all the quick sands of stage falls. She quite warmed us all up with her pair of corset stockings in the last act even if they did not match with the dress she was wearing. I did not like either Mr. Messenger Bellis as Christian Brent or

Mr. Walter Vincent as Montgomery Hawker. But perhaps I was not supposed to like them, so I look forward to the next meeting before passing any further verdict. But Peg makes up for a lot of things, and so to Miss Doris Phillips we give greetings.
Tonight the company plays a thrilling spy play entitled "Seven Days' Leave."

DOMINO.

Shanghai Harriers' Club

The inter-club run between members of the Shanghai Harriers' Club and of the Boys' Athletic Club which was staged over a six mile course Sunday morning resulted in a win for the latter aggregation, three ex-members of the Harriers being the first men home.

The start of the chase was from Hongkew Park pavilion and the course followed the old Kiangwan Road, round the racetrack and finishing along the new cinder road at the side of the railway line, taking in a short strip of country facing Hongkew Park at the end. A field of twenty-one went away from the starting point and all finished the run, which speaks well for the pluck of some of the younger members. The Public School boys turned out to assist the Harriers in this event and all shaped well.

F. A. Remedios took first honors, with M. J. Cruz and R. F. Remedios second and third. The Harriers' crack man, Reneman, was off color and could get no closer than fourth. The Boys' Club won the event by a margin of 14 points. The time of the winner was 40 min. 23 secs. and the order of the first eight men to finish was: F. A. Remedios, M. J. Cruz, R. F. Remedios, C. C. Reneman, G. Waller, C. Rose, C. Rose, J. J. Ellis. Mr. J. A. S. Alves acted as timekeeper and Mr. F. H. Watson as referee.

The Club hopes to be able to arrange another inter-club run over a course entirely across country. The soggy condition of the country at present precludes it.

SICKLY BABIES

Sickly babies—little ones, who are troubled with their stomachs and bowels, whose teething is painful, digestion bad, and who cannot sleep well—may be made healthy and happy by Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy.

Mrs. Wilfred Damons, of Val Brilliant, Quebec, writes: "Please send me a vial of Baby's Own Tablets as I would not care to be without them. I have used them for constipation and vomiting and am well pleased with the result."

The Tablets are recommended also as a remedy for worms, and to break up simple colds and fevers. Obtainable from medicine dealers, also at 50 cents the vial post free from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 86 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

How To Protect Your Skin to keep it soft and smooth all winter

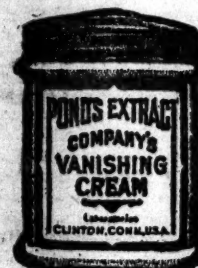

During the winter days of extreme and trying exposure, protect your skin by applying a little Pond's Vanishing Cream just before you go out. Rub it lightly into your skin—at once it disappears, leaving no disagreeable shine. With this protection, you can keep your complexion soft, smooth, free from attack by wind and cold, free from redness, roughness and chapping.

The very first application will show you how much your skin is benefited. Pond's Vanishing Cream is wholly different from any other cream you have ever used. It contains no oil and cannot make the skin shiny. Its purpose is to give you a pure greaseless cream for use in the daytime, to protect your skin from dirt, wind and chapping, and for use in the evening or whenever you want your skin to look especially lovely.

Some of the famous women who use it!

Many of the most famous women of the stage use Pond's Vanishing Cream constantly. Among them are Billie Burke, Elsie Ferguson, Frances Starr, Martha Hedman, Elsie Janis, Norma Talmadge, Jane Cowl, Pavlova, Marion Davies, Mabel Taliaferro, Marjorie Rambeau.

All of the ingredients of Pond's Vanishing Cream have been carefully selected and tested, and only the purest and freshest are used. It will not grow hair or down on the skin. Try it for a week and notice how much lovelier your skin will look.

The World Issue At Versailles

THE all-compelling factor in world politics today is not the particular interest of any one nation, or Alliance, but the insistent need of preserving the peace of the world and protecting it from future attack. It was in defense of this great principle that the Allies took up arms against Germany; it was for the sake of this principle that America entered the fray; it was in order to safeguard this principle that the Allies for over four years bore the heat and brunt of a bitter and remorseless war; and now, it is precisely for the sake of this principle that the nations of the world are foregathered at Versailles for the sake of putting forward reasoned and considered views that are finally to crystallize into a solemn compact for the preservation of civilization.

It is natural, therefore, that President Wilson, in his address to the Peace Conference, should have thought fit to dwell at some length and lay special stress on this fact, and at the very outset he took good care to remind the assembly of the prime purpose for which they were gathered, lest the real object of the Peace Conference might be lost sight of, which might easily happen in view of the conflict of interest and diversity of aspirations involved.

President Wilson in his speech clearly hints at nothing less than this—that for the sake of keeping the peace of the world, there must be no obstacle forthcoming on the part of any Power or Powers to any territorial or other adjustments that might be rendered necessary for the sake of the world's peace, and that every Power participating in the deliberations of the Peace Conference must be prepared to abide by the decisions of the Peace Conference as they are arrived at from time to time during the progress of its sittings. "It is a solemn obligation on our part therefore to make permanent arrangements that justice shall be rendered and peace maintained."

Turning aside for a moment from President Wilson's address, it is clear that the work of the Peace Conference is rendered highly complex and bewildering by the Russian tangle. Pending a solution there the progress of the Conference must necessarily be blocked, as indeed the progress of the whole world. There is a sharp division of opinion among the Allied peoples as to the advisability of inviting the various Russian authorities, especially the Bolsheviks, to meet on Prince's Island. There are many, of course, who are inclined to agree with ex-President Taft's dictum that the best and most effective way of solving the Bolshevik problem is to shoot them off and to deal with them through their own system. But the ex-President evidently doesn't know much about the movement of which Bolshevism is but the symptom. The Bolsheviks probably are just as suspicious for peace as the rest of humanity. There can be no doubt whatsoever that the resources of diplomacy should be exhausted before the taking of further military steps in regard to Russia, for there is at present a strong element in Allied countries which is opposed to military intervention in Russia, and in fact is itself Bolshevik. It may be accurately asserted that a large part of Germany, Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria, and important sections of other European states, are infected with Bolshevism. The whole movement is showing a tendency to spread and grow rather than to subside.

There are evidences of it in Portugal, Spain, Italy and France and some of the British workmen have, in their meetings, adopted resolutions of sympathy towards it. Therefore President Wilson, aware of what it really is, utters this plain warning to the members of the Peace Conference:

"Gentlemen, the select classes of mankind are no longer the governors of mankind."

What does he mean by that? Why does he insist, in the face of great opposition, in demanding that the Peace Conference meet the Bolsheviks face to face and man to man and find out what it is that they are demanding for the future? Nobody knows what they want and they are themselves confused as to what it is that they seek. But the President is aware that they present a great problem and constitute a great force.
Decisions at the Peace Conference which do not satisfy perhaps 150-000,000 Russians, 50,000,000 Germans, 45,000,000 Austro-Hungarians, with lesser numbers of the same classes throughout the other nations of Europe, will mean that a great majority of all the people of Europe will not be satisfied and instead of war being ended a new war between capital and labor will have been launched.

President Wilson goes on to say:
"The fortunes of mankind are now in the hands of the plain people of the whole world. . . . Fail to satisfy them and no arrangement that you can make will either set up or steady the peace of the world."

Many mistakes have been made by the Allies with regard to the movement in Russia and the world cannot afford to make many more mistakes in Russia or anywhere else. The people of Russia, all of them, want a peaceful and orderly government.
Whether you are a Bolshevik or not, you want order in your country, so that your home, your family and your work will be protected. But you also, whether you are Bolshevik or not, want to take a hand in your government in order to insure a "Square Deal" for yourself and your class.

The trouble has been heretofore that it was the select classes who ran the governments and thus saw that they got a square deal and sometimes a lot more, for themselves. And so, every once in a while in the world's history, the unselect classes have gone on a rampage, as they have now done in Russia and as they are threatening to do elsewhere, and the result is nearly always the same; the select classes get an appalling drubbing. But also, these upheavals eventually subside into some form of orderly government, for your revolu-tionist wants an orderly government just as earnestly as does his select brother. And your revolutionist usually wins for himself a better government than he had before and one under which he has a fairer chance.

President Wilson has studied all the governments of the world and he has lived and worked all his life under what is perhaps the freest of them, so it is easy to understand that he has full sympathy and that he will fight for the recognition of their rights. Clemenceau and Lloyd George, judged on their records, will be able coworkers in this Cause. And with free forms of government coming into existence all over Europe and the world united in a League of Nations, President Wilson evidently sees a great Peace Era in sight, presiding the present Peace Conference does not make the mistake of giving a "Square Deal" to the select classes only. The Bolshevik movement is not confined to any one nation in Europe but it is confined to one class in Europe and that is not the "select class" to which President Wilson has uttered his warning.

Couldn't Stand The Band Pleasure seekers had finished inspecting the captured guns, and the children playing over and with them in the Mall, and were lured to the back of the Horse Guards, where a military band was playing. There they were spectators of a violent struggle between a handsome young bloodhound, the regimental mascot, and a young soldier who held him on a chain.

"He's got to stay with the band," his keeper explained in an interval of peace, "and they've tried him with everything from the march in 'Faust' to 'Bonnie Dundee,' but he can't stand their playing at any time. He has broken his chain four times already, but now he has got to stay." But he hadn't, for at this instant he broke the chain for the fifth time, and disappeared in the direction of Buckingham Palace.

Need The British And American Merchant Navies Clash?

An English Publicist Expresses His Views Of The American Merchant Marine

By P. W. Wilson (Correspondent for the London Daily News)

Most of us now agree that the happiness of mankind depends largely upon a good understanding between the United States and Great Britain. In past years there was a certain coolness between the two countries, due to schoolbook memories of 1776, and perpetuated by a sense of grievance among Irish-Americans and latterly by the influence of people here whose ancestry is German. In some quarters these antipathies remain, but taking the American union as a whole, there is overwhelming evidence for the view that a better feeling has been aroused. But a new danger has to be faced and faced boldly—that is the prospect or possibility of rivalry between the mercantile marine of the old world and the new. Let me give the facts.

Formative Period Before The War
Before the war the United States was occupied mainly with the gigantic task of developing her internal resources and assimilating a large immigration of foreign people.
Neither in commerce nor in the carrying trade was she competing strongly with Britain or, for that matter, with Germany. But even during that period of peace it was clear that in due course America would emerge from this preparatory self-absorption and would make her contribution to the world's imports and exports. Sooner or later that evolution must have brought her into contact with the foreign trade which Britain had already established. I am one of those who think that the prosperity of one country assists the prosperity of all and I have never believed that the United Kingdom, with a population of only forty-four millions, would be able to monopolize or would have a right to monopolize the international wealth of the human race. All we could fairly ask for is our due share, and I have seen it claimed that in actual industrial output the British workman, with all his apparent lethargy, has shown a higher record than his German neighbor—indeed a record second to none other. Our plants are now organized on modern lines and so great is the shortage of commodities all over the world that for many years to come we shall find customers for the goods we are able to produce; I am told that in India alone orders are held up which would employ the engineering plants of Great Britain fully for twelve months. Moreover, we shall take part in reconstructing the ruined areas of France and Belgium, and in addition to this task, we could find employment for our builders and carpenters which would occupy them indefinitely on cottages and schools—the latter needed throughout the country under the new education act. For a long spell after the war, therefore, we anticipate good trade.

I do not share the misgivings which are felt by some distinguished people who shake their heads over the prospects of our shipping. It was at Great Britain's urgent request that the United States developed the mercantile marine without which it would be impossible to maintain the American army in Europe and to feed the Allies who otherwise would be starved. That mercantile marine will continue after the war and will be available for use in every quarter reached by America's expanding trade. The real question is, therefore, whether we shall be confronted by a surplus of tonnage and consequently by cutthroat competition along the main routes of the ocean. This situation would be the more unfortunate because the ships on both sides would be controlled in many instances not by private individuals, but by governments themselves, so that the two nations would be involved in the issue. Also alarm may be created, however unreasonable, by an appreciation in the United Kingdom of America's growing financial predominance. I will give reasons why such fears should be discounted.

Apart from statistics it is surely obvious that Great Britain with her long experience of profitable navigation and her worldwide imperial associations will always secure a large slice of international traffic. The proposed purchase of British tonnage now owned by the International Mercantile Marine shows that shipowners in Liverpool and London regard such property as a valuable asset. And no wonder. The world's shipping before the war was about 73,000,000 deadweight tons.
Of this amount, 21,500,000 tons or nearly a third has been destroyed.
It is true that Allies and neutrals, including the United States, have constructed about 15,000,000 tons, but this contribution does no more than meet the normal increase in tonnage which is constantly proceeding as civilization broadens from one continent to another. The actual shortage today is, therefore, 20,000,000 tons, or thereabouts, which in the British reckoning, that is gross tonnage, would be 14,000,000 tons. That deficiency represents seven years of British shipbuilding and during those seven years a further shortage would have developed.
In other words, the normal output of tonnage in Great Britain is not enough to catch up with the world's requirements. With the whole volume of new American tonnage added we shall not get even on our reckoning until the year 1922.

From this it follows that there is no danger whatever of a glut in the shipping market. On the contrary, it is estimated that it will take from one year to eighteen months to bring home the American army of 2,000-000 men. In addition, transport must be provided for 1,000,000 colonials and for the expeditionary forces in Mesopotamia and Palestine.

The enormous purchases of food by the American government are a further indication of what demand there will be for cargo space. Take two illustrations. America holds a virtual monopoly in typewriters. And the result is that, owing to government requirements, the price of these machines in England has risen to $300. And even at that price some of the machines of venerable aspect turn out ciphers. Wood pulp and printing paper are extraordinarily scarce.
My publishers are paying 35 cents a pound for the pages of a book which would have cost them 8 cents a pound before the war. All this means a vast demand for raw materials, and therefore transport.
Every American ship and every British ship will be needed.

The Effect Of Rising Freight Moreover, apart from government regulations, freights have risen today to an almost prohibitive figure.
I suspect that it is out of their early profits, added to later insurance on ships sunk, that the British syndicate is finding the money to buy tonnage from the International Mercantile Marine. South American freights on food rose to fabulous figures during the year 1915. I cannot give an exact quotation, but the kind of thing was 145 shillings per ton where 15 shillings per ton had been the normal charge. An ample supply of shipping will bring back freights to something like their old level, and according to the laws of political economy this reduction will tend to increase the transport effectively, while reducing prices for the consumer. For all concerned this will be a good thing, for the present inflation is not healthy and must be brought to an end.

Many English people dislike the phrase, "Freedom of the Sea," because on German lips it is held to imply that before the war we used our naval predominance in order to limit the commercial opportunities of the Federation. This is untrue, for there was no part of the British empire or no coaling station owned by us where German shipping and German goods were not welcomed on the same terms as our own, but we fully recognize that no one navy, however powerful, is now able to command the seas, except in association with other navies. For the future the security of the ocean depends on the continuing comradeship of the French, Italian, American, Japanese and British fleets, working together under one high command. We admit that we hold five vital strategic points, that is, the Straits of Dover, Gibraltar, Suez, Cape Town and Singapore, while the United States holds Panama. It has not been suggested that we have ever abused the trust which has thus fallen to us by the verdict of history, and if the world is today becoming safer for democracy, it has been partly because Great Britain did not surrender to Germany the above vital fortresses of freedom. At the same time, we are well aware that the possession of these places has laid us open to jealousy and even to malice, and I imagine that if guarantees of good conduct are considered to be necessary from Great Britain after her record in this matter now extending over a century, there is no reasonable understanding for the future which she would not be prepared to give and to keep. But after the object lesson to all the world of what happened in Heligoland, which under British was a health resort, while under Germany it became a nest of submarines, our statesmen cannot reconcile it with their duty to incur any such risk, whether by intrigue or otherwise, in respect to naval stations the security of which is fundamental to a League of Peace.

Let us suppose for one instant that Great Britain had surrendered, as she was asked to do, the right of search and capture of privately owned shipping in time of war.
Where would the world have been today? Germany would have had unlimited resources and would have maintained war effort by a large foreign trade. In this matter the practice of the American navy and of the Allies as a whole is indistinguishable from the plans which Lord Grey, when discussing the subject in 1907, declared to be necessary in the unhappy event of a struggle arising with the greatest military power in Europe. Assuming that in years to come we shall all act together, as we are doing today, then it follows that the right of blockade in the widest sense will only be exercised by Great Britain in association with and with the consent of other civilized nations and especially of the United States, which will then have a navy equal to our own. This fact is surely a sufficient guarantee for Americans, whatever may be their susceptibilities, that England will not and cannot act independently of the general judgment of mankind.

Before the war Great Britain depended entirely on the private ownership of her mercantile marine. Technically, this is still the position, but in actual fact tonnage has been requisitioned by the authorities, and the use of it allocated for man power and merchandise. Shipbuilding is also controlled and the output of merchantmen has fallen severely because the yards were fully employed on repairs and on the construction of a navy which has been increased from 2,500,000 to 7,000,000 tons. Before the war we built 3,000,000 deadweight tons a year. In 1915 we built only 900,000 tons and in 1916 only 750,000 tons.
In 1917 we managed to turn out 1,600,000 tons, and this year it looks as if the figure would rise to about 2,300,000 tons, partly owing to the assistance of our women, who I am told can construct a ship from stem to stern.

The prospective American figures are much larger than these. Before the war you built 900,000 dead-weight tons in four years. In the year ending September 3, 1918, you lost 574 vessels of 3,000,000 dead-weight tons. In August alone you delivered 330,000 tons, and on Independence Day you launched 55 vessels. You have now 203 shipyards, of which 77 are for steel, 117 for wood, 2 for composite and 7 for concrete vessels, and the number of your shipways is 1,020. You employ 386,000 people in this industry where previously you employed 50,000 and your present program is for 5,693 ships of 16,000,000 deadweight tons.

The Problem Of Finding Crews
The future of this vast property depends upon whether under normal conditions you can build as cheaply and as well as other nations, and furnish crews who will run the ships punctually and at a commercial cost.
Seafaring is a hard life, and it is by no means certain that in a country of such limitless opportunities on land as America there will prove to be a sufficient number of sailors, except at a prohibitive wage. Countries like Norway and England take the sea as part of their empire, and even in England there has been a growing dependence on Asiatic labor in the engine rooms of ships. Under the Shipping Board your enterprise is virtually a piece of state ownership, and in due course it will be necessary to strike a balance, and make it clear to the taxpayers whether their property is making a loss or a profit. Then will come the crisis, or perhaps I should say the moment of decision. Is it better worth while for America to continue developing her own resources, leaving it to other less favored nations to do the fetching and carrying, which has been her policy hitherto, or will she consider that she cannot any longer be left in a situation of such dependence on foreign help? These are questions for Americans themselves to answer, and it may be found that they bear indirectly on the fiscal policy of this country which again is a domestic matter. But I have said enough to show that there is nothing in the American program to disturb the mind of any British ship-owner or shipbuilder who takes a broad view of the general outlook.

'Fearful Stuff'

The Peking and Tientsin Times has been conducting a vigorous campaign for some time past against the Japanese morphia traffic in North China, in connection with which it has drawn up a "Black List." The following letter to the editor of our Tientsin contemporary sent by a Japanese dispensary carrying on business in the Tientsin Native City will be read with interest: Dear Sir, I am keeping a general store called E. Hua and Co., at Asahi Road, Japanese Concession and living in the Co. and in the neighborhood I am doing medicine broker in Foreign Concession as English gentlemen know. Such as Messrs. Watson and Co., Messrs.
Henderson and Co., and Messrs.
Woolley, Voss and Co. Thus I have proper business until now.
Within my neglect of my superintendence for the shop (Suda Dispensary) at Hopel City, my assistant (a Chinese) was keeping the fearful medicine personally. I understand the matter (to my wonder), by your Black List. Therefore I have taken out the fearful medicine to the bottom from the shop now.
I dismissed him, his assistant get him to a madman, he talked me a fearful matter and gone out.
An inspection of your representative is at your disposal now. Not only this I have proper business as above stated.
So, I beg you that you will kindly draw out my company name from the Black List. If you do so I shall be very much obliged to you.
I am, Dear Sir, yours truly, K. ADACHI.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Physicians Prescribe Castoria.

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: 1st, The indisputable evidence that it is harmless; 2nd, That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food; 3rd, It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for castor oil. It is absolutely safe.
It does not contain any opium, morphine, or other barbitic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrup, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a medical journal to say.
Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Castoria
"Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place." WILLIAM BELMONT, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.
"I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use." S. A. BUCHANAN, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.
"I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it." H. J. TAPP, M. D.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
"I take pleasure in recommending your Castoria, having recommended its use in many instances, and consider it the best laxative that could be used, especially for children." NATHANIEL K. KING, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.
Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Women Terrorists Of Old Russia

Mme. Breshkovskaya Tells How She And Others Struggled Through Dark Days

Madame Breshkovskaya was the subject of an interesting Washington message in the cables recently. The following account of an interview given by her to The Japan Advertiser last month is apposite:

Has any woman in the world had a life so filled with thrilling experiences? Has any woman lived through so many persecutions, looked death in the face so many times, and emerged from it all so unbroken, so valiant? Is there another woman, who, long pass the Biblical allotment of age, with a half century behind her of sacrifice and suffering for a cause, still hears the call of her people and goes off on a 10,000-mile journey, across great stretches of menace, through strange lands, to tell to the people of another nation the need of her country?

A remarkable woman—perhaps one of the most remarkable women in the world—is Madame Catherine Breshkovskaya; beloved by a hundred million Russians and familiarly known as "Little Grandmother of the Revolution."

A wave of grief passed over the world when rumor had it that this woman had been murdered by the Bolsheviks. But again death passed her by and she managed to break through the Bolshevik lines and get to Japan, where she is staying with friends, awaiting transportation to America.

When the Woman's Page representative called on Madame Breshkovskaya to ask her about the women revolutionists, she found the "Little Grandmother" going through strenuous gymnastic exercises, from which she emerged with the sprightly step of a young girl, her face glowing with color. She met the representative with the greatest cordiality, kissing her on the cheek in true Russian manner.

It was at times with the dreamy, detached air of a mystic, with a hint of smoldering fire, ready to burst into flame that would consume everything; often with emphasis and pointed finger to direct a thought to its target; occasionally with sad seriousness that changed to a laugh that was not all merriment, that she spoke of the women—the heroic women of Russia.

"It was in 1854, just after the Crimean War, that came some liberal reforms. After this, the Tsar was afraid of his liberalism, but it was too late—the young girls of education had left their homes, and had gone into the villages to teach the children of the peasants. Many of them of noble birth, they lived as the poorest of the villagers. It was like a crusade.

"These girls were persecuted but nothing could keep them from their work. We were, in a manner, apostles and we had more and more followers. And as the persecutions increased, our zeal only increased.

"The authorities became alarmed and I was arrested as a dangerous propagandist and was the first woman to be condemned to hard labor in Siberia. When I arrived there, there was not even a prison for political women prisoners. Two years later a prison was built and they put us in it and it filled rapidly. I can tell you.

"How did the women stand it? My dear, they endured the hardships just like the men, and the men regarded them as comrades. Why, one girl of noble birth spent 15 years in the fortress and another, 22 years, 10 years of which she was in solitary confinement, permitted to read only one book—the Bible.

"The women prisoners made no complaints—they were always brave. Sometimes, officers would come from Petrograd to ask us if we were not tired of our life there, that we had only to acknowledge the Government and be free. But everyone said: 'No, we were as we were before—against the Government.'

"Did I ever try to escape? Ah, Madame, several times I tried to escape but was always brought back. We were always tormented by the thought that our time and energies were being wasted, and we used every circumstance to get away. Many women did escape, but I was considered an especially dangerous individual and was constantly under surveillance. I did not have any privileges.

either, for I would not make friends with the police. I could not. They were bad men. Although I never feared them, they disgusted me.

"After 22 years I received permission to return to Russia. But I returned with the intention of continuing my work. In the 22 years I had been away, there were many changes. I found many young girls who were ready to work for the cause. They were translating forbidden literature and distributing it broadcast. For three years I organized the youth of Russia in our cause, and then there came a reactionary movement and we were all arrested and persecuted and imprisoned. Then it was that these girls became warriors and terrorists.

"They learned how to use guns and they killed many tyrants. Many of the girls were hanged and shot, and others were sent to hard labor in Siberia. I was hidden all this time and for 11 years was not found. During this time I managed to get abroad. How I crossed the frontier mystified the authorities. They arrested many old women for me, but I escaped. However, in 1907 I was caught.

"So many young girls joined the cause at this time that parents became alarmed and began to give them more freedom—permitted them to drink and play cards. This caused a general decay among the youth of Russia and was a bad decade for our cause.

"The Kerensky revolution was the work of the Social Democrats. Kerensky sent for me and I returned to Russia full of hope for my people, but then the advent of Germany came in and gave us Bolshevism. The Bolsheviks are bad people: most of them criminals.

"During the Kerensky Government, the women of Russia received not only political rights but economical rights equal to the men. They became the Lords of the Earth as well as the men."

Madame Breshkovskaya has an undaunted faith—a spiritual faith that was inspired in her when as a girl, her mother read to her the biography of a noble girl who was tortured and even put to death by her own father for her Christian belief.

"Every word of that girl's life was printed on my heart," said Madame Breshkovskaya, "and I determined to make my soul like her soul. I would never give up my faith."

"And I believe that Russia will come out of this—I know that all will be right with my people. But after the thousands of years of oppression we must work for several years before order can be restored."

Although Madame Breshkovskaya comes of noble family, she, like Tolstoy, has adopted the manners of a peasant woman, wears her style of dress and lives her life whenever possible.

"If I did not do this," says Madame Breshkovskaya, "the people would not have confidence in me. They would consider me about them and my influence would be nothing."

at our disposal by a Chinese friend. The Black List has now attained such proportions that we shall be compelled, in the near future, to print it on a separate sheet, in order not to deprive our readers of the usual amount of news matter. If other friends conduct as exhaustive and careful investigations as those in the capital of Shantung, the list will soon cover not one, but several sheets. But its publication will be continued until the responsible authorities have taken action which, in our judgment, is sufficiently drastic to bring this nefarious traffic to an end.

The fact that morphia is openly on sale in so many Japanese stores in Tsinanfu throws a lurid light upon the professions of the Japanese Authorities that for months past they have been endeavoring to suppress the illicit traffic in drugs. Tsinanfu is one of the cities where Japanese influence is strongest, outside of Manchuria. It is in direct railway communication with Tsingtao, which is believed to be the principal port of entry for morphia. It is, as we think, unprejudiced Japanese officials will be the first to admit, quite impossible to reconcile the conditions existing at Tsinanfu with the oft-repeated assurances that the Japanese Consular Authorities are doing all in their power to prevent the smuggling and sale of narcotic drugs in China. The traffic could never have attained such proportions, nor flourish so openly, if the Japanese officials seriously attempted to suppress it. The appearance of ten Russian names in the Tsinanfu list indicates the necessity for action on the part of Foreign Consular officials generally. Little or no good will be accomplished if the Japanese dealers are driven out of business, to be superseded by unscrupulous Europeans. The problem demands action by the representatives of all Treaty Powers, the British included. The smuggling of opium that is reported to be going on in the Burmese frontier suggests laxity on the part of the Indian Government, which must not be tolerated in the future if our own country is to be free from reproach. And a number of Russians and others are known to be engaged in the opium trade between Manchuria and Chihli. As we have stated previously, the present campaign will be conducted against the offenders regardless of nationality. And we may add that names once embodied in the Black List will only be removed on one condition: that the innocence of the party named is definitely established.

A Homily On Japan's Morality

The Asahi comments as follows on the decline of morality in Japan: Two things are now attracting the attention of society, one the appointment and resignation of one or two high officials, and the other the question arising from the dying wishes of Miss Matsui (that her ashes should be interred in the family burial plot of the late Professor Shimamura). A certain high official was once an enviable man of honor and distinctions. Because of a scandal, he resigned and decided to retire into the woods. Taking advantage of the forgetfulness of the people, he was reinstated in a high government position. Then rose opposition from various quarters and he was reported to have resigned again. His reinstatement was an insult to the nation and his resignation from the new position was a proper thing to do.

Miss Matsui was a pleasant, affable, she gained the sympathy of thousands in proportion to her popularity. She may be pitied, but her dying wish is unmoral to the extreme. That wish must have been expressed because of mental disorder at the time of her death. But her surviving friends and relatives do not realize the circumstance and are trying to put her wish into execution. They are disloyal to the cause of morals of society, and untrue to the dead.

Japan has had her moral ideas from old times. Since the Restoration period, she came into contact with western countries and there have been violent changes wrought in Japanese society. New ideas were introduced so that the moral principles which had to be modified in practice. New phenomena of men and women were almost in a state of disorder. So-called gentlemen could accompany strange women in public gatherings. These things showed how society has lowered morally. The ideas of those countries unconsciously entered Japan together with the literature of those countries, thereby poisoning the minds of the people. This should be remembered.

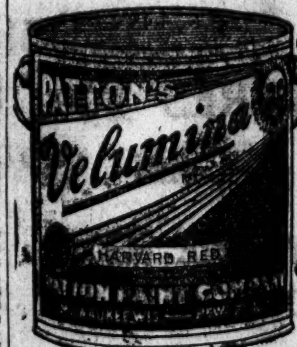

But in England, America and other countries, which are the leading powers of the world, no such moral laxity can be noted. Social restraint is very strong. The attitude of the Cabinet Ministers at the time of the Marconi shares incident the attitude of Messrs. Asquith and Lloyd George in the law suit against newspapers, etc., showed how careful the British statesmen are in regard to their public actions, not content to leave even a shade of doubt unrecovered in the minds of the people. Is this not a proof of rigorous social restraint among the Anglo-Saxon people?

What about Japan? She should not imitate the bad ways of the countries which are in a sad state of dismemberment. She should learn from the Anglo-Saxons. Nay, she should reflect upon her honor as a gentleman's land. The editor could help saying these few words as he has been lamenting the decline of moral ideas in Japan in recent times. The two incidents mentioned gave him an opportunity to give vent to his sentiment on the subject.

The Morphia Black-List

Some interesting revelations regarding the ramifications of Japanese morphia traffickers are made in the course of the following article appearing in the Peking and Tientsin Times: The Black List is augmented today by a formidable list of morphia dealers from Tsinanfu, and the neighborhood, in Shantung. With the exception of ten dealers, who are Russians, all the names are those of Japanese. The thorough and careful inquiries made by our Shantung friends have produced most startling results. Packets of morphia purchased this month from every one of the dealers black listed, are actually in our possession, and we are glad to be able to reimburse the investigators for their purchases from the sum placed a permanent organization and secretariat to carry on the business of the League in the intervals between the conference.

Peace Conference Names Committee On League

The conference therefore appoints a committee representative of the Associated Governments to work out the details of the constitution and functions of the League.

Draft resolution regarding breaches of the laws of war:

That a Commission composed of two representatives from each of the five Great Powers and five elected by the other Powers shall be appointed to enquire and report:

(1) The responsibility of the authors of the war.

(2) The facts regarding breaches of the laws and customs of war committed by the Germans and their Allied forces on land and sea and in the air.

(3) The degree of responsibility or error regarding these offenses attaching to particular members of the enemy forces, including members of the General Staffs and other individuals, however highly placed.

(4) The constitution and procedure of a tribunal appropriate to the trial of these offenses.

(5) Generally with regard to cognate matters.

To Report On Reparation

Draft resolution regarding reparation:

That a commission be appointed not exceeding three representatives each from each of the five Great Powers and not exceeding two each from Belgium, Greece, Poland, Rumania and Serbia, to examine and report:

(1) The amount for reparation which the enemy countries ought to pay.

(2) What they are capable of paying.

(3) The method, form and time within which payment should be made.

Draft resolution regarding industrial and labor questions:

That a commission be appointed composed of two representatives apiece from the five Great Powers and five representatives to be elected by the other powers to inquire into conditions of employment from the international aspect and to consider the international measures necessary to secure common action on matters affecting conditions of employment and to recommend the formation of a permanent agency to continue such enquiry and consideration with and under the direction of the League of Nations.

Also the following draft resolution:

That a commission composed of two representatives apiece of the five Great Powers and five representatives to be elected by the other Powers be appointed to inquire and report upon an international regime of ports, waterways and railways.

The draft resolutions given above were adopted by the Peace Conference without a change.

Mission To Poland

Paris, January 24.—An official communique states:

The President of the United States and the Prime Ministers and Ministers for Foreign Affairs of the United States, British Empire, France and Italy and the representatives of Japan held a meeting at the Quai d'Orsay from 5 to 5:15 this afternoon.

The Mission to be sent by the Allied and Associated Powers to Poland was first discussed and it was agreed that M. Pichon, the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, should prepare a draft of instructions to the Mission for the approval of the representatives of the Powers. It was agreed that one press representative for each of the five Great Powers should be permitted to accompany the Mission.

The question of territorial readjustments in connection with the conquest of the German colonies was then taken up. Sir Robert Borden, the Premier of Canada, Mr. W. Hughes, representing Australia, General Smuts, representing General Botha, the Premier of South Africa, and Mr. W. F. Massey, Premier of New Zealand, were present and explained the particular interests of their respective Dominions with regard to these questions.

The next meeting of the Allied Ministers will be held on the 27th.

The French, British, American and Italian associations for the League of Nations has decided to hold a conference on the 26th, presided over by M. Leon Bourgeois, for the purpose of drafting a joint plan for the League of Nations.

Invitations To Russian Groups

Paris, January 23.—An official communique states that the representatives of the Great Powers re-assembled this morning but did not discuss Russian or Polish affairs.

At two o'clock this morning the wireless station at the Eiffel Tower began to transmit invitations to the influential political groups in Russia to send three representatives to Prince's Island. The Inter-Allied Commission charged to communicate with the Russian envoys has not yet been appointed but it is understood that it will include no personage who has exercised diplomatic functions in Russia.

The military delegates to Poland, where General Barthelmy already is, will be chosen probably from the Allied generals on the spot. The four civilian delegates to be appointed by the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy have not yet been designated.

Five Big Questions

Paris, January 24.—The public sitting of the Peace Conference tomorrow should mark an important advance. Five big questions will be raised and referred to expert Inter-Allied Commissions for the performance of the necessary spadework on them: firstly the League of Nations; secondly, international labor legislation; thirdly, the personal responsibility for the war; fourthly, reparation and indemnities; and, fifthly, the internationalization of certain ports, rivers and railways.

With regard to the League of Nations, Mr. Lloyd George moves a resolution affirming the recognition in principle of the League, after which various draft schemes will be referred to an Inter-Allied Commission. It is confirmed that the British plan for the League is practically identical with the pamphlet written by General Smuts while President Wilson's is a composite of the British, French and other schemes, notably General Smuts' which has profoundly impressed President Wilson.

Paris, January 24.—The American Mission is confident that President Wilson's plan for a conference at Prinkipo, in the sea of Marmora, is the safest one to follow. One motive receiving attention is the enormous sums of money loaned to Russia by the Allies, which debt was afterwards repudiated by the Bolsheviks. Proper recognition of the indebtedness of Russia to foreign nations is one of the principal points to be discussed at the Island Conference.

The Russian Embassy in Paris, which is the headquarters of the three Governments at Omsk, Archangel and in South Russia, assert that the Peace Conference has committed a fatal act and strengthened the abominable anarchy in Russia by official recognition of Bolshevism.

which is a growing menace to the entire world. The three Governments refuse to associate with Bolshevism and will not send delegates to Prinkipo.

The progress of the work of the Peace Conference is being criticised; remarks being made that there are too many delays and words instead of deeds, while the main business of the Conference should be to draw up the terms of Peace which can be imposed on Germany and to make arrangements for the ultimate peace of the world.

The latest announcement is that the Peace Conference will propose the appointment of a Commission representative of employers and employees from the chief nations of the world to discuss labor problems.

Stockholm, January 24.—The former Soviet Minister, in an interview, expressed his satisfaction at the decision reached by the Peace Conference with regard to Russia and said that he was firmly convinced that his Government would accept the offer of the Allied Powers.

French Criticise Proposal.

London, January 24.—The French newspapers continue to criticise the decision of the Supreme Council regarding Russia, but some newspapers suggest that President Wilson merely desires, by forcing the Bolsheviks to show their hand, to prepare the world for action against the Bolsheviks as he prepared America for action against Germany.

An important mission from the Polish Government has arrived in London on its way to Paris to arrange for the commercial development of Poland in co-operation with the Allies.

M. Millukoff, a former Russian Minister, interviewed in London by a representative of Reuter's agency, deplored the invitation extended by the Allied Conference to the Bolsheviks. He said that the only way to settle the Russian problem was to overthrow the regime of the Bolshevik robbers and cut-throats by the Allies supplying guns and munitions to patriotic Russians.

Paris, January 23.—Prince Lvov, interviewed by L'Intransigeant, opposed the invitation to the Bolsheviks but Reuter's correspondent learns that the general inclination among Russians here is to accept the invitation as harmless and possibly advantageous.

All the principal French newspapers comment at length on the important decision taken by the Peace Conference yesterday inviting the various authorities in Russia, including the Bolsheviks, to meet on an island in the Sea of Marmora, the representatives of the Associated Powers for a full and frank discussion.

Most of them think that a solution of the Russian problem has not yet been found but a broad and fair-minded enquiry has been opened.

Public sentiment in France was expressed by M. Pichon when he wrote that there can be no compromise with the Bolsheviks. The other means of settlement now proposed has at least the merit of giving a solution which would bring Bolshevik delegates to Paris.

A Mission has been sent to Poland as a provisional measure and the delegates are coming into touch with Paderewski's cabinet to consider questions of recruiting and food supplies.

M. Sazonoff makes a vehement appeal for Allied help for Russia and suggests the occupation of Petrograd in the name of humanity.

Representation Of French Colonies.

Paris, January 19, (delayed).—A Note issued in Paris on Thursday night says that the announcement that the principal British colonies will be specially represented at the Peace Conference has excited comment in French colonial circles and, by virtue of the panel system, the French Government will utilize the services of qualified plenipotentiaries whenever colonial questions arise for discussion.

Domination At Russian Conference.

London, January 25.—The Paris correspondent of The Times states that it is understood that the Dominions have been asked to send a representative to the Prince Island Conference and Sir Robert Borden, the Premier of Canada, has been approached in this connection while it is probable that General Botha will be the Dominions representative on the other Mission which is going to Poland.

WAR COUNCIL MEETS

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

Paris, January 24.—The Supreme Inter-Allied War Council met today. M. Clemenceau, M. Pichon, Marshal Foch and General Weygand represented France; Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. A. J. Balfour and Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig Great Britain; President Wilson, Mr. Lansing and General Pershing the United States; Signor Orlando, Baron Sonnino and General Diaz Italy, while General Sir Henry Wilson and General Hilses represented the Versailles Council. Mr. Winston Churchill, the British Minister of War; the French Minister of Munitions, M. Loucheur and the Japanese representatives were also present.

The Supreme War Council has agreed to recommend the issue of an identical medal and ribbon to all the Allied and Associated Powers who participated in the war.

Electric Cooking

THE IDEAL METHOD.

The Electric Oven, being free from the fumes of combustion does not require to be ventilated, therefore food cooked in it retains its flavour, the natural gases from cooked meat are not carried away through flues but retained in the oven. A clear, uniform heat is maintained which has the effect of closing up the surface of meat or poultry, thus preventing loss by evaporation.

Electric cookers are hired out by the—

ASK STAY IN WINDING UP OF PARADISSIS AND CO.

Application Made In Supreme Court For Halt Of Proceedings Pending Appeal From Order

An application for a stay of proceedings in the winding up of the firm of Alex. E. Paradissis and Co., of Chetoo, was made before Judge Skinner Turner in the British Supreme Court yesterday. Mr. R. P. C. Master made the appeal on behalf of the firm and Mr. E. W. Godfrey appeared for the petitioner creditor while Mr. F. Alan Robinson appeared as official receiver.

Mr. Master applied for the stay pending hearing of an appeal, notice of which had been filed, and said that he was aware, in the event of the application being granted, that he would have to give security for costs. Mr. Godfrey said that if there was to be a stay of proceedings some special ground should be stated on behalf of the company. Mr. Master replied that he was unable to give any special ground for the appeal until he heard from Chetoo.

Mr. Robinson then applied for the substitution, as special manager of the company, of Mr. James Silverthorne in place of Mr. Mortimer Reid. Mr. Silverthorne, he said, was a resident of Chetoo while Mr. Reid was in Shanghai and the substitution would cut down expense. The Court granted the application and ordered that pending the hearing of the appeal the special manager should refrain from disposing of the assets of the company save in so far as might be necessary in carrying on the business and other matters and formalities in connection with the winding up of the company.

The Court added that some responsible British subject should give security in the sum of $500 for the costs of the appeal, this to be done before the appeal could be heard.

British Army To Help In Occupying Austria

Part Of Force In Italy To Be Added To Allied Patrol Body

(Reuters Agency War Service)
 London, January 23.—Reuters Agency learns that a section of the British army in Italy will form a part of the Allied Armies of Occupation in Austria. The British troops will probably remain in Transcaucasia for some months. Four divisions at present in Egypt are awaiting ships. An Army of Occupation will be required in Mesopotamia for some time but it will be largely composed of Indian troops and it is proposed to withdraw a large part of the British troops before the hot weather if ships are available.

How Much Pleasure Do You Get From the Cigarettes You Smoke?

If you buy Cigarettes for the pleasure you derive from smoking them, the supreme test must be the quality, in other words, the flavour and mildness.

It means that hundreds of smokers have tried the MELKONIAN Egyptian Cigarettes against other brands, and found them better in flavour and mildness.

That the Melkonian Egyptian Cigarettes have in less than a decade wrested the premier position from their opponents, is sure proof of their superiority.
